

Who are we?

We help create inspirational and affordable funerals.

We tailor everything we do to support the family in saying goodbye in an authentic way.

There are really three aspects we prepare for when looking at death, before death, at the time of death and after death.

Here at Barefoot Funerals we support in all aspects of death care.

We love being with people in the space that is real. Death is the most inevitable part of life, so we work to help people get comfortable with this. We bring open hearted support, with respect, humility and compassion.

In these intense emotional situations we offer a calm and stable presence and are committed to individual and community healing. We are sensitive to the spiritual aspects of dying and death, in a culture that doesn't recognise or value this skill. We love creating ceremonies that allow you to feel connection to your values and what makes meaning for you.

Leaving the Earth lightly

Time, Presence and Continuity of Care. We offer our community both guidance and practical funeral services in a continuum of end-of-life care. Our work can begin as a Doula to the dying, and travels all the way through to the funeral and beyond.

We can take care of everything surrounding a death, or just those parts families want help with.

We also run community engagement events and workshops throughout the year.

We advocate and promote death positive societies.

Please join us in reclaiming death as a final embrace of life.

Why Barefoot Funerals?

Our philosophy is to allow families to reclaim the rightful control of the dying process and care of the deceased. Dying and death is a natural process. Most families are not even aware they can legally be involved in the care of their loved one. We believe in the gentle honouring that is inherent in the dying process and in learning to embrace it as a natural part of life.

Barefoot Funerals is about choice. We hope that we can use our knowledge, care and professionalism to guide you and your family through a kinder and gentler death experience. We wish to set an example in how simple this process is, allowing you to focus on self-care and celebrating the life of your loved one.

Having someone close to you die is a life altering experience. There may be times that you feel alone, scared, and angry, all this is natural. This can be a time with a lot of unknowns in front of you, with decisions that need to be made. There is no rush. If you are looking for a funeral or memorial service with an abundance of love and ceremony, which aims to uplift and begin the healing please give us a call. We will honour your loved one in a unique way.
